

BY LAW CASE HEARING DEC. 8

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The supreme court today advanced for hearing on December 8 the case of Standard Brewing Company, New Orleans, which is seeking to validate a sale of 2.75 per cent beer under a time prohibition. It will be argued with a similar case appealed from Baltimore.

The supreme court today granted government permission to take over in the case now before the court, the constitutionality of the act on child labor products. The case is the Atherton Mills vs. Eugene Hanson, and has been appealed from an adverse decision in the North Carolina supreme court.

Capwell Celebrates Anniversary Thirty Years' Business in Oakland

The H. C. Capwell Company has celebrated its thirtieth anniversary today.

The history of this firm is, in a sense, the history of Oakland since the growth of one has always been supplemented by the growth of the other.

The store was established by H. C. Capwell in a small store on Washington and Tenth streets, then an isolated business district, and achieved its success through having built on the rock of public confidence and fair dealing.

"Right at the meeting," spoke H. C. Capwell in his initial bow to the little Oakland of 1889. He pronounced "one price, plain figures," something unheard of in that day; "courteous welcome, buying or looking"; also that his way would be "a new way," and, marvelous for those days, "your money's worth or your money back."

Ten years later in an announcement in THE TRIBUNE and Enquirer of October, 1903, what the lawyers called "the findings in the case" are set forth. Here they are:

"Ten years ago we promised your money's worth or your money back, and other things. At that time shopping in Oakland was not as pleasant as a day in June. It was about as your life was worth to get anything exchanged, and as for having your money returned, you might as well have asked for an eye, and your chance of getting it would have been about equal. You were expected to go into a store and buy even if you were not suited."

Capwell's made shopping easier and more agreeable in Oakland, and, as a consequence, grew rapidly. These modern methods later spread around and you may now enjoy them in every store in Oakland and nearly every store anywhere.

Twenty years ago there appeared in the two local papers another announcement, "November and December are good months to test us. We find that a satisfied customer is our best advertiser," and today the same invitation is extended in the same plain language.

Capwell's original promise of "money back" worked a revolution in Oakland's shopping system. Today the merchant who would not refund money on unsatisfactory purchases might almost as well go out of business.

"For thirty years customers have learned to put their confidence in Capwell promises, because they have been lived up to," let the Capwell's of today whisper back to the little Oakland of 1889 just how it has been forced to respond to this public confidence every day in the year.

U. C. CO-EDS TO RETAIN FEW FRILLS

BERKELEY, Oct. 27.—Co-eds at the University of California have declared a strike of their own.

Their refusal to join in a "sympathy strike" with the Occidental College, because there aren't any superfluous frills and furbelows on the State university campus—that is, to any great degree.

Miss Dorothy McCullough, member of the junior class and leader in sorority circles, says Berkeley co-eds will not sanction a strike which will slick back their hair and send powder puffs into the discard.

"Recovering from their scolding may have needed some such action," declares Miss McCullough, "but the University of California co-eds are sensible enough to dress with modesty and decorum."

"Give up powder? Why, that's a necessity! A little bit of powder used at the right time and place is as necessary as a clean blouse."

Dr. Ruby Cunningham, woman's physician on the campus and lecturer in hygiene, has different ideas, however, concerning frills as displayed on the college campus.

She declares not all co-eds need a scolding, but there are many who can profit by advice, says the faculty member. Dr. Cunningham says she will not advocate a strike to settle the situation. University of California girls, she declares, can handle their problems very effectively.

Recovering from their scolding the Occidental co-eds planned a counter blow. Feminine students attended classes in Puritan frocks, hair slicked back and noses which shone forth the fact that they had not had their usual session with a powder puff. Startled professors and male students alike gazed and gasped but the co-eds went on their way as if they were not fomenting a veritable volcanic eruption. Now the men at the college are planning a strike of their own.

"Put on your frills and powder again!" comes the cry from the sterner portion of the student body.

FOURTH MAN ARRESTED FOR COPPER THEFT

ALAMEDA, Oct. 27.—Nathan Gold, fourth man to be arrested in connection with the alleged theft of thirty-eight coils of copper wire from a warehouse at Corning, Tehama county, is still in the city prison, following his arrest at his home in Oakland Saturday night.

Gold is implicated by Green, Dagner and Brakfield, the other three men, as the "Oakland business man" who engaged them to go to Tehama county after junk and who, they say, told them to take the copper wire from the Corning warehouse. Gold denies the stories of the others and said that the trio approached him and asked if he would buy some copper wire. Gold said he told them he would buy the wire if everything was all right and the wire was what the men represented. He declares that when he saw the coils of new copper wire he became suspicious that it had been stolen, and refused to go through with the deal. He said the others took the wire away with them and that he knew nothing more about the matter till he heard of the arrest of the three.

Church is Discussed by Paulist Father

BERKELEY, Oct. 27.—The church of today must take an important part in the reconstruction of the world, according to Rev. John E. Burke, Paulist father from New York, at present conducting a mission at Newman Hall, Ridge road and La Loma avenue.

Father Burke declared yesterday morning that although the church's primary work is regarding the things of eternity, he dwelt upon the duty of its members in the shifting, changing economic and social conditions of the day.

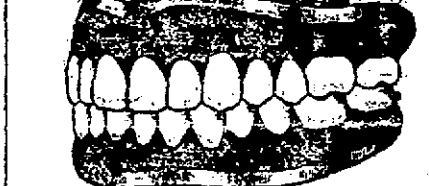

This evening Rev. Bertrand L. Conway will speak on "Religion in Spirit and in Truth." Tuesday afternoon, at 4:15, he will discuss the "Philosophy of Prayer," and in the evening, at 7:30, his lecture will be on "The Kingdom of God." The first fifteen minutes of the evening service will be devoted to answering questions.

Two Held Accused of Illegal Hunting

ALAMEDA, Oct. 27.—George Gordon of 73 King avenue, Piedmont, was arrested on Bay Farm Island yesterday by Deputy Game Commissioner Joseph Sedgley. Gordon was arrested at his home in Piedmont. In court this morning he had his case set for next Thursday. He is said to have killed rail and sandpipers, protected shore birds. Otis Collichmann, similarly accused, and living at 1308 Regent street, this city, will also appear in court Thursday. William Close, accused of reckless auto driving on Park street, yesterday, is to appear for trial Thursday.

Printers Plan Picnic for Wounded Soldiers

ALAMEDA, Oct. 27.—Spurred to enthusiastic action by the example of Alameda Post of the American Legion in giving Letterman service patients an auto outing, the printers of San Francisco are planning a similar auto picnic for the men in the big military hospital. A. F. Heuer of this city, a former Alameda councilman, has written to Alameda Post of the proposal of the printers and has asked help in putting the plan into execution. The crippled and sick service men will probably be taken to same point on the peninsula side of San Francisco bay, probably Woodside or thereabouts.

2 GIRL SWIMMERS COLLAPSE IN RACE

ALAMEDA, Oct. 27.—Two girl swimmers are today recovering from collapse after the read and exertion at the closing race of the National A. A. U. held at Alameda. Unwilling to admit defeat by swimmers she had once bested in a Golden Gate swimming mile, Lillian Snowgrass, 242 Frederick street, San Francisco, refused to leave the water, although badly "played out" and she and a companion, Miss Agnes Dale, 1847 Grove street, San Francisco, had been rescued by the water police beach guards. They were taken unconscious to the Alameda sanitarium, but are expected to recover.

Both girls finished the full mile distance, but the extreme cold of the day, which for a time threatened to call off the race and the exertion caused their collapse.

Miss Snowgrass recently won the women's race across the Golden Gate. Four other contestants in the race were with her in the contest yesterday. She had covered half the distance before her stroke began to fail, and attendants sought to induce her to give up the race. She refused, insisting on finishing her mile. Lillian Snowgrass, of San Francisco, one of whom Miss Snowgrass had defeated in the Golden Gate swim, was the winner of yesterday's race.

CAR CONDUCTOR IS BEATEN BY SIX

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—Attacked by six men, who beat him so severely that city physicians believe he may die, John Watt, 30 years old, a conductor on the Third street line of the United Railways, is hovering in a precarious condition at his home, 2022 Sutter street. The six men said by the police to be his assailants are in the city prison.

The men were arrested after a short chase by the police following the attack. No motive for the attack is known and the prisoners refuse to discuss the case.

According to the story told the police Watt had left the car at Third and Berry streets to signal the motorist, Paul Grassigna, before the car crossed the bridge at this point. Six men jumped off the car and attacked the conductor. The motorist went to the rescue and a passenger blew a police whistle, summoning Sergeant of Police Peter Bliek and Policeman Martin Brennan.

Louis Parano, Antonio Fracchio and Joseph Bemihitis, identified as the men who held and struck Watt with an iron bar, have been booked on charges of attempted murder, and Peter Prussella, Louis Accorono and Peter Gassini, their companions, are held on battery charges.

Husband Would Be Boss; Wife Files Suit

ALAMEDA, Oct. 27.—Alexander Bubolz, a Bay Area business man, says that in Germany the husband is boss of the household and that he, therefore, should be boss in America, according to allegations made by his wife, Mrs. Elsie Bubolz, in a suit for divorce which the wife filed in the Alameda county superior court, through her attorney, E. J. Silver. Mrs. Bubolz says that her husband told her, "Your mother-in-law's been in Germany and I don't intend to see a different custom prevail here." Mrs. Bubolz also says that her husband thought his old shoes were good enough for his wife to wear and that she was compelled to use hubby's discarded footwear in working about the house. Judge L. R. Weinmann is attorney for the husband.

AUNT ELSIE'S KIDDIE KORMER

Phyllis Quinns Doll—Sing We!

Gracious! the grown-up story has been hustled right off the page today by all your letters. They simply WON'T stay in the letter box so here they come. The first one is a Halloween story, of course.

DORIS DIGLER.
It was the afternoon of Halloween day. Nancy was talking to her Mother. "Mother, just think," she said, "I have never seen a Halloween party."

After dinner, Nancy sat reading. Suddenly the door bell rang and she answered it. Not a soul was in sight—how strange! She was turning away when there were laughing shouts and crowds of boys and girls jumped out from a corner and shouted: "Surprise! Surprise!" Indeed she was surprised.

"Oh," she cried, "it's really a party and FOR ME!" They played games of all sorts and then had ice cream, candy and cookies to eat. After they left, Nancy said: "Oh! Mother I liked it so!" And Mother said: "Didn't I tell you?"

Dorothy is already feeling that Thanksgiving Gobble feeling coming over her and here is our first Thanksgiving story of delight which she has sent in.

The turkeys are gobbling. The pumpkins are ripening. Thanksgiving is coming. And here is another one about COLUMBUS.

Columbus manned the small ships three. He, Columbus, bold and free. He sailed and sailed on the ocean blue. He, Columbus, bold and true.

DOROTHY FRICKSTAD.

Here's another ghost story creeping in. Ghost stories have become all the fashion since Halloween. Dipped over the horizon so please dip your story up straight and listen.

IT'S A DANDY.
Once there was a little girl named Gertrude and she had the strangest idea. She didn't like to sleep in a house. She would always sleep outside after her mother had tucked her in and this was what happened to her one night when she did that very thing. Mother had kissed her good night, and then Gertrude had gotten out and gone to the stable. There she had found some straw which she had piled on the lawn and snuggled down to go to sleep. About midnight she was awakened by being lifted in some one's arms. Looking about she saw a band of robbers! They carried her to their cave and threw her on the floor. You may be sure she did not sleep for the rest of the night. In the morning she saw piles of gold and treasure. She was thinking how

"His name?" she demanded, and he, knowing well the power and wealth and crushing influence for which the financier stood, replied triumphantly: "Cadorna Shibi!" She looked up quickly. "What about him?" she asked, and then he told her as much as he thought good for her, winding up by saying that there were bonds stronger than love and stronger than hatred. "For there is the bond of fear. I have my hands about his neck, so you have mine about mine. I call the tune, and he dances. I ask money, and he pays. In two months' time he will pay much gold!"

She spat out a date stone. "Is that the only chance of my making money—and saving my neck?"

"What better chance can there be? He will pay, he must pay!"

She broke into low laughter. "He will pay, will he?" she asked with mocking voice. "Oh, thou fool! and thou dost think that thou hast thy hands about his neck—and his purse?"

"Yes!"

Again she laughed, her body shaking with mirth so that her bangles clanked like castanets, and then she whispered to him the words—the little cause of big events—which had passed a few hours earlier between the begum and Cadorna, and which she had overheard.

"He knows," she added, "that thou art a heavy-weighted buffalo of a Bokharan—and he—he is Cadorna Sahib, and he is as clever as the snake, his paternal ancestor. Mahal, women as cunning as she—elephants in spring!"

Once more she whispered a few little words, and she wound up in a riot of laughter; so thou seest, fool, there will be money for Cadorna Sahib, a divorce for Azzena Mahal, many jewels for the begum, unhappiness for the raja, disgrace for the American, and for thee—wah—for thee a swinging and stretching on the gallows of pain, where the vultures can pick anybody—may the meal not turn their stomach!"

And, with a mocking salaam, she whirled toward the door.

But she was not quick enough for the benarasi. He did not have time to strangle her, even at the risk of the others in the house hearing the noise.

But he did have time to catch her by the flowing curls, to bring down his immense fist square between her eyes, and to drop her like a log—and then out of the house, up the dark gully and, panting, into the mazes of the Machua Bazaar!

He twisted and turned and doubled on his tracks, though the Burra Bazaar and the Jora Bagan sections—Calcutta's Bowery and Hell's Kitchen, with an added flavor of Hindu callousness—and on, through little grimy gardens in the back of houses where the brick paths were worn hollow and slippery with the tread of many naked, naked feet—through a greasy, sticky wilderness of streets—vaguely aiming for the Howrah railway station.

Should he hell the authorities about Cadorna and the gun-running attempt? Why, while he would draw the nose around Cadorna's neck, that would save him from the charge of murder. He himself would swing. And where was the profit of that?

Profit?

He smiled at the thought. Allah—he said to himself—if he could get out of town before the Pearl Tree gave the alarm, he would have a chance of not only saving his neck, but even of making money. For the guns and ammunitions were still hidden in the foothills.

He could find his way there blindfolded, and the Ahmet Kheh would be glad to go. For there would be hand money. For there had been rumors and whisperings in the bazaar—of the Ahmet Kheh having gone across the border to steal cattle—of a British punitive expedition being mobilized at Peshawar to follow the raiders into the hills—yes, here was a chance of golden gain!

Thus he reached the Howrah station. The train for the north and the comparative safety of the north was due to leave in a minute. He still had a few gold pieces in his waist sash since he had been careful enough not to empty all his belongings in front of the Pearl Tree.

He pulled the only overbearing babu railway clerk into the quickest ticket sale that worthy had ever accomplished, and he rushed out on the platform.

But he was just a second too late. Already the whistle had shrilled. The train—it was the same train which was taking the "Pins in Clover" company to Wazirabad—was in motion.

He stood there and panted and swore—and as the last carriage pulled out of the station, he saw, leaning from the window, the ear-donning, hawk-like features of Louis Cadorna.

While, up north, in the raja's palace, at Wazirabad, Ralph was resting his plump little body on soft Surah silks, while Susan Dunsmore was looking from the window of her room at the night glory of the Indian sky—olive and purple and silver, while Cadorna, whispering low, laughing words into the ear of Azzena Mahal, Mahamet Ghule Khan was cooling his aching head with wetted tags in a little house belonging to one of his patriots who had given him refuge for the sake of Allah and because of the wicked, murderous glister in the other's eye.

Writes about FOLKS AND THINGS

She is a good woman, a good mother, a good friend, but a very bad wife. Years ago she wasn't a bad wife at all, but a very unusually good one.

She was young and pretty, light-hearted and gay. She had a pretty wit of her own, and could make an evening pass as quickly as a thought.

She had a taste for music and dancing. And for the sake of her husband, she was one of the sort who need to be kept out of the way of the music and dancing.

Well, the husband was called out of town. That was when there were two little children. One was a baby about six months old, the other was a child of about three. While the husband was gone, the little wife was very lonely, but she did the best she could to keep herself cheery and happy.

She wrote long, loving letters to her husband, and told him everything the next baby looked, and everything the old baby said. She made herself some pretty clothes, all ready to meet him when he came back.

He was home, too, and lonely—so he wrote her—and longed for the sweet sound of her voice and the sight of her smile. There was a great merry-making when he came home. The children were dressed in their best, the table was set with all the pretty china and nice silver. There was a fire leaping on the hearth, the new canary in the cage seemed to know that it was a great occasion, and sang louder and more sweetly than ever.

But there was something wrong about the husband. He was glad to see his wife and children, but somehow there was a shadow across his face. He seemed to be thinking of something else all the time.

His wife noticed it. After the children were put to bed she put on him a few plain questions, plainly and without rancor of any sort. He denied the things that she hinted at, denied them utterly and completely. But later she found that her miserable suspicions were true.

From this moment that little wife has never pretended to love him any more. She is kind to the children, keeps her house as pretty and neat as ever, makes herself agreeable when her husband is there, but she is always glad when he goes, and isn't at all glad when he returns.

Now the husband is different. He has wept and cried and begged for forgiveness; he has announced his repentance. He says he knows he has done wrong and he is bitterly sorry for it. Why can't his wife forgive him? But the wife will not forgive him, and that little family is slowly but surely drifting on to the rocks.

What is to be done about it? Dear me! I wish I knew. The little wife doesn't want to bring all this misery into her life. She would make up with her husband in a minute if she could, but she can't. She says she can't. She says every time she tries to think kindly of him again she wonders what sort of looking woman it was that he made love to in the great city when he was so far away from home, and she cannot forgive him, and can never trust him again.

REVELATIONS of a WIFE

ADELE GARRISON

At my declaration that Dicky and I were very happy together, a sudden unreasoning anger flamed in the sunken eyes of the wounded officer. He half raised himself from his pillow and his tone was almost a shout:

"Then, if that be so, why isn't he taking care of you? Where is he?"

My heart echoed his question dreadfully. Where, indeed, was my husband? I did not mean his geographical location, that I knew, but his soul—his heart?—Ah! that was a far more difficult question to answer!

But I knew that I must give no hint of the real condition of affairs to the weak, half-hysterical man whose burning eyes questioned me so fiercely.

He had sunk back upon his pillow weakly, and the nurse had hurried to his side.

"You mustn't excite yourself," she said authoritatively, "or I must ask Mrs. Graham to go away."

He turned his head toward her and I saw a gleam like ice come into his eyes. I realized in that moment, as I had when he faced the infuriated Ernest, what a man of steel he could be.

"Pardon me, please, but may I ask you to sum up the interior for me? There is something I must tell him at once."

It was so patent a subterfuge to get her out of the room that I wondered if she would submit or refuse to go. But evidently she had no desire to face his displeasure. She waited a long moment, while the gleam in the sick man's eyes narrowed to a pin point of steel, then she said quietly:

"Of course, but I'm afraid I cannot come to you just now."

"Please wait for him then," he roared, and turned his face away from her.

She turned away without another word and went out of the room. As the door closed behind her he looked up at me imperiously.

"Why don't you answer my question?" he demanded. "Where is your husband?"

"The nurse gave me no chance to answer before," I returned quietly. "But the answer is very simple. My husband is away from home on a business trip, and, of course, we have not alarmed him by telling him of my condition."

He closed his eyes for a long moment. When they opened again I saw gross disbelief in them.

"That is only part of the truth," he said deliberately, then as I said, "but if I come to see you, I shall find that you are lying."

"I took my courage in both hands, looking into his eyes squarely. "Please don't misunderstand me," I said, "but if I come to see you any more there must be no more questions concerning my married happiness. Think of me only as you would of a very grateful friend—another dead woman who has no more to live."

An amused smile flitted across his face.

"You're such a very masculine person," he said ironically, and then his face fell into its old, sad, stern lines and he closed his eyes again.

I waited quietly, hoping that he would go to sleep, for I feared the effect of the excitement he had brought upon himself. But he evidently was stronger than I thought, for at the end of two or three minutes, when he again opened his eyes, the feverish excitement had gone out of them, and his voice was calm and strong.

"I fancy I have been seven kinds of a delirious fool," he said quietly, "but I'll try not to offend again."

There was something in his tone that told me he had fought a battle with himself in the moments he had lain so motionless. Before I could frame an answer to his words he was speaking again:

I waited quietly, hoping that he would go to sleep, for I feared the effect of the excitement he had brought upon himself. But he evidently was stronger than I thought, for at the end of two or three minutes, when he again opened his eyes, the feverish excitement had gone out of them, and his voice was calm and strong.

FIRELIGHT

Household Hints

HEALTH-VEGETABLES.
Fresh vegetables, served freely, spell vigor and freedom from sickness for those who eat them. They keep the blood as it should be and the whole family in good condition. The whole family will ask for a cooked helping if the vegetables are cooked so they are refreshing and palatable.

Vegetables just out of the garden taste better when simply cooked—steamed, boiled or baked—and served with a little salt, butter, milk or cream. Often a heavily seasoned sauce covers up the more desirable vegetable flavor.

Overcooking of vegetables impairs their flavor. Very delicate flavors are destroyed, while vegetables with very strong flavors, such as cabbage or onions, become disagreeably strong if cooked too long. Overcooking also destroys the attractive color of some vegetables.

Cook summer vegetables as soon after they are gathered as possible in order to preserve the flavor. If they must be kept over, keep in the ice box or some other cool place.

Let wilted vegetables soak in cold water to freshen them. If vegetables must stand after paring, cover with cold water to prevent wilting and discoloration.

Before cooking, put head vegetables and greens in cold water for one hour with a tablespoon of vinegar to remove insects, then wash very carefully.

Drain all boiled vegetables as soon as tender—they become soggy if allowed to stand undrained after cooking. The water drained off may be saved for soup stock.

Most vegetables are better when cooked in a small amount of water because a part of the mineral salt dissolves out into the water and is lost if the water is thrown away. Cook whole vegetables in the fat.

Tender spinach or lettuce leaves require no added water for cooking. If thoroughly washed, enough water will cling to the leaves to prevent burning.

Delicately flavored vegetables should be steamed or cooked slowly in a small amount of boiling water until tender and the water boils away.

Strongly flavored vegetables may be cooked uncovered in a large amount of rapidly boiling water, and the water changed several times during cooking.

Starchy vegetables should be put on and cooked in a sufficiently large amount of boiling water to cover them. Boil gently and keep kettle covered.

The time required for cooking vegetables depends on the kind, size, and age of the vegetable. Judgment must be used in deciding when they are quite done but not overdone.

SMILES.
He—My dear, I have just paid off the mortgage on our home. She—I'm so glad. Now you can put on another and buy an automobile. News Letter.

Ask the Tribune

A department of QUESTION & ANSWER

Editor THE TRIBUNE—Is a marriage between a half or quarter blood negro and a white person legal in California?—M. L. M.
It is against the law of California for a white person and a person with any negro blood to marry. The offense is punishable.

Editor THE TRIBUNE—Can you tell me why the moth violates the first law of nature—self-preservation—when it flies into a light?—J. B.
It seems to be a strange contradiction of the nature of living things that a moth should fly deliberately into a light or dash itself to death against the glass surrounding a lamp light. This is in contrast to the usual law of nature which gives the living thing an instinct to protect itself against enemies. For a long time we thought that moths did not deliberately burn themselves up by flying right into a light, but our naturalists have proven that not only moths but certain birds, bees, flies and butterflies burn themselves up by flying into the flame of a light or fire. Naturalists do not know why.

Odd & Interesting Facts

Several explanations have been given of the meaning of the word "foolscap" as applied to a certain class of paper. One of the explanations is that when Charles I of England found his revenue short he granted certain privileges, amounting to monopoly, and among these was the manufacture of paper, the exclusive right to which was sold to certain parties, who grew rich and enriched the government.

At this time all English paper, in watermarks, the royal arms of the parliament under Cromwell made a jest of this law, and, among other indignities to the memory of Charles I was ordered that the royal arms be removed from the paper and a fool's cap and bells be substituted. These were in their turn removed when the rump parliament was dissolved, but paper for the size of the parliament's journal still bears the name of "foolscap."

THE GOVERNMENT'S POLICY.

President Wilson has disclosed that the federal government has adopted and will pursue a definite policy with reference to the strike of the workers in the bituminous coal mines which John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers, has threatened to inflict upon the nation beginning November 1. That policy views such a strike as not only unjustifiable, but unlawful. And in case of the strike being called as scheduled, President Wilson outlines the course to be pursued as follows:

"I can do nothing else than to say that the law will be enforced, and the means will be found to protect the interest of the nation in any emergency that may arise out of this unhappy business."

The ninety-nine per cent of the people of the United States who will suffer seriously in the event coal production is stopped will feel greatly encouraged after the plain-spoken assurances of the President, which, it is announced, represent the unanimous view of the cabinet and is to be considered the unalterable program of the government. The people knew that the tie-up of the coal industry for the causes vouchsafed would be an intolerable thing. But they did not know whether the administration at Washington would stand faithfully by the people at large. They now have the promise that such will be the case.

Men who have been instrumental in bringing about and promulgating the strike order in the coal industry have shown a desire to force a strike greater than a desire to reach a settlement of their demands. They have acted as if they wanted a strike only.

Officials of the United Mine Workers have demanded on behalf of the workers an increase of sixty per cent in pay and a six-hour day and a five-day week. Thus in addition to the increase in pay, which would double the price of coal, they aim at a 37½ per cent decrease in production. At the conference in Buffalo between representatives of the union and mine operators, which lasted for several weeks, the union conferees declined to make any concession from their demand. The working agreement which had been approved by the government and which was to continue until peace was declared, had previously been repudiated. The proposal that the present wage scale remain in force until March 31, 1920, was rejected. All efforts by Secretary of Labor Wilson to effect a compromise failed.

The harm that would follow an effective strike of the coal miners is incalculable. The railroads have a fuel supply to enable them to operate about fifteen days at the outside—some railroad men claim they could not operate more than five days if the coal supply was cut off. All manufactures and industries in four-fifths of the territory, holding nine-tenths of the population, would shortly stop. Essential business concerns would have to close, for at least a part of the normal day. Households east of the Sierra would suffer great hardship, nine-tenths of the families of the country being unable to lay in a winter supply of fuel in summer, but being obliged to purchase coal in small lots as they need and can pay for it.

Granting the demands of the miners as to increase in wages would mean the addition of one billion dollars to the nation's coal bill, the decrease in production would under the shorter day and week add $275,000,000 more—in all $1,275,000,000 per capita for every person of the 100,000,000 population.

Now, because they cannot inflict a real, intended, this burden of living cost upon the people, the miners' union officials have planned to punish the people with great suffering, to tie up transportation, industry and business to paralyze every agency of production. President Wilson says he cannot believe that any right of any American worker needs for its protection the taking of this extraordinary step, and:

"I am convinced that when the time and money are considered it constitutes a fundamental attack, which is wrong both morally and legally, upon the rights of society and upon the welfare of the nation."

An attack upon the rights of all the people and the welfare of the nation cannot be tolerated for the benefit of any individuals or group of individuals. The threatened coal strike would be more than this; it would be an attack upon the very lives of the people, upon women and children in freezing homes.

The issue between the coal miners and operators should be submitted to arbitration. The just and reasonable demands of the miners should be granted, but the power to inflict unjust and unreasonable injury upon the people should be denied both sides alike.

CARRANZA'S AGENT ERRS.

President Carranza's propagandist-in-chief, Mr. George F. Weeks, editor of The Mexican Review of Mexico City, has crossed his wires in the issue of that journal for October. Mr. Weeks undertakes to refute an article published in the New York Independent purporting to give a description of conditions in Mexico and of the composite mind of the Carranza administration. In the Independent article appeared this paragraph, quoting an officer of the United States army, with reference to the recent incident at Juarez, when American troops crossed the Rio Grande to chase alleged Villistas away from the vicinity of the border:

"What Carranza will do is something like this: He will suppress the facts in the Mexico City press. Then he will issue a note of protest against the invasion of Mexican sovereignty, ordering the Americans to get out. When he is sure they are out, he will issue flammings, that he ordered the Americans out and they had to run, as usual."

Mr. Weeks replies to the above, and concludes with the following:

"And each and every one of the predictions made by the officer as well as by the writer in the Independent in this connection have been proven unfounded by the progress of events, many of which had occurred before the article was given to the public."

Now in the October issue of The Mexican Review is a pamphlet containing a translation of President Carranza's speech before the Mexican congress on September 1, 1919. The usual protests and demands were made as predicted. Senior Carranza's account of the Juarez incident follows:

"On the 15th of last June Villa and his followers attacked Juarez City, garrisoned by General Francisco Gonzales, and having been defeated in three successive attempts to capture the town, Villa tried to provoke an international conflict by firing at the American side, where a few persons were wounded. On this account the troops of that country were sent across the boundary line into Mexico to disperse the 'Villistas' and the next day he crossed the line into the United States. General Gonzales demanded the immediate withdrawal of the foreign forces, acting with all firmness and prudence."

"One government protested against the invasion and made representations before the officials at Washington, and our Embassy was told in answer to our complaint that the sending of troops was intended merely as a protective measure and had for its only purpose to repel the aggression of the Villa followers."

The Mexican Review, according to the testimony presented to Congress recently is a Carranza subsidized journal. It was started in Washington as a propaganda sheet and maintained out of funds provided by the Mexican government through the Mexican charge d'affaires at Washington. A few months ago it moved to Mexico City. A government organ should be more careful in disputing the statements of its supporting angel. President Carranza has a bad temper. He may not like a mere editor to contradict his official word.

THEY COULD HELP.

Health officers in San Francisco and other cities object to the proposal to permit the sale in one county of milk pasteurized in another county. They claim such a practice would involve a weakening of the safeguards of the public health. Of course the doctors have a long, technical and probably clumsily expressed reason for their stand.

But if permitting independent milk dealers to pasteurize their milk and do other things in compliance with the law in one county would mean cheaper milk in another county, there ought to be a way to do it without danger to the consumers' health. The process of pasteurization ought to be the same in all the counties, and nobody doubts that it is or can be made so.

The health officers might aid in improving the milk supply and enlarging the source of supply if they wanted to. The prospect of a lower price for this necessity of food ought to be an inducement for them to try.

But it nearly always happens that when an effort to extend the public relief in one direction is made it encounters in another direction official obstruction from some functionary who imagines a loss of dignity if he is ignored.

An explanatory addition to the legal form in which Governor Stephens has couched his proclamation calling the legislature into special session to act on the suffrage amendment should be made. The proclamation now reads: "Whereas an extraordinary occasion has arisen and now exists requiring that the State Legislature be convened, etc." The phrase quoted above should be amended to read "an extraordinary political situation has arisen which the Governor is afraid to disregard and to meet it with political equanimity, a special session of the State legislature is necessary." It is quite unnecessary to perpetrate a falsehood simply because the statute prescribes a certain phraseology.

NOTES and COMMENT

There was a time when a protest against women smoking would have been warmly approved by all women, and there will be many to believe that the idea still lingers in many homes and some circles; but when we read that "protests against smoking by women caused an uproar at the international conference of women physicians" we realize that the idea is not universal.

A romance of the war is now being disclosed through the decoration of a French town for its gallant suffering for more than four years. Pont-a-Mousson was on the edge of the St. Mihiel salient, and underwent 234 bombardments. Thirty thousand shells fell upon it. Eighty per cent of its houses were destroyed. Yet it was occupied by the Germans but a single week. It deserves a medal.

Josephus Daniels is going to have some support in his proposition to control zones in the vicinity of naval yards and stations. There isn't much to be said in defense of the traps and deadfalls generally maintained in the vicinity of these important places for the express purpose of separating Jack from his pay check.

New York brewers have decided to stop the manufacture of 2.75 beer, and instead to supply a brew containing one-half of one per cent of alcohol. The country's metropolis, erstwhile the gayest of the gay, will thus become a waterlogged community. It is one of the inevitable transitions from booze to barley water.

In despatches such as that which declares that General Diaz is given honors in London there is a chance of a misunderstanding. It is General Armando Diaz of Italy—valiant soldier in the late war—who is honored, and not any of the Mexican Diazes.

Twenty years ago it didn't seem to take everything to get up an excitement. That Alameda purchased a second bicycle for its police department appears to have been a considerable item of news.

The mayor of New York is going to keep that city on the so-called daylight saving basis. There is in consequence likely to be much sotto voce expression on the part of neighboring communities whose time falls to jibe by an hour. In nearly every transaction involving the outside world the city will have to be a time adjustment.

The telephone buzzed in the office of the Tribune last Friday. The call came from the Vallée Times. "Have you seen Postmaster Walker, our editor, up there? No? Well, he may be at the postoffice instructing your new postmaster. For God's sake, look him up and get him on the phone—this is important business—we have taken in a new subscriber."—Divine Tribune.

CANNOT BE KEPT A KID.

The case of Yvonne is partly and interesting. It had been proposed one time to preserve the ruin of the whole town in their present state as a war memorial. But the interest of private owners and the attachment of inhabitants to their town is too strong to be taken into consideration. It is to be hoped that the Bureau of the plan for the rebuilding of the whole town, including the Cloth Hall and the cathedral, will not materialize, but nothing will prevent the inhabitants from going back to their old homes and restoring them to the best of their abilities. The Radio Communists in the Yale Review. "While regretting from a purely artistic point of view, that the present ensemble of the grandest pile of ruins created by the war will not be entirely preserved, every Belgian will feel happy to think that, even here, in the most desolate spot of this desolate country, local pride and love of the clock tower proved stronger than the German guns, and that the clock will crown again and children laugh where shells of every description burst themselves for four years amid the clatter of falling debris."

HEALTH and HADDINESS

How Science Now Remedies Even Very Severe Frostbite

By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University)

Frostbite, which is also known under the names of chilblain or "erythema pernio"—pernio is redness—is a type of redness more common in the late fall or the warm days of winter than in the coldest weather. It occurs commonly in underfed, under-nourished, high-strung, emotional individuals who somehow fail to absorb and make use of all their pabulum.

"Often there is merely a slight, dusky or dusky discoloration of the skin of the tips of the toes, the lobes of the ears, fingers, heels or cheeks. Redness, blisters or simply eruptions develop on top of the 'frost' or 'burn' regions. Extremely severe chilblains may exhibit ulcers, erosions and deep, open wounds. There may be mild, moderate or intense pain, itching or burning. Tenderness on pressure is common. On the whole, this persists intermittently until summer and then disappears until next winter.

Treatment in general is not very successful, because the affection is obstinate and difficult to relieve. Dr. O. L. Levin, instructor in dermatology of the New York Post-Graduate Medical School, has found ultra-violet radiations more gratifying as a treatment than any drugs, massage or other measures. Each affected area is exposed to the ultra-violet 'light.'

A quartz glass lamp with mercury vapor as the illuminant source of the 'light' is used. A quartz glass 'screen' or 'filter' is kept about ten inches between the skin and the source of the rays. The itch and the pain generally cease a day after the first application, and the open places tend to begin healing. One week of treatment may suffice to relieve all the trouble which does not recur.

It is evident that there is some helpful, penetrative agent, in 'the right end of the spectrum,' where the invisible, ultra-violet rays begin and light ceases. These energizing particles leave the source of luminosity and penetrate the anemic, weakened tissues to strengthen them in the very manner needed.

It is really the ultra-violet rays of Old Sol, himself, which help to give heat and energy to living things, to destroy the molds and fungi of darkness and disease. Hence, frostbite, an essentially weak, enervating malady with loss of energy, tone and vitality, becomes a fabric invigorated, strengthened and made red-blooded by so fine a source of power as the ultra-violet radiations. There is, of course, some unknown chemical factor at work besides. What this is remains to be discovered.

PLAY FAIR!

The only regulation of business by legislation should be to establish rules to prevent cheating. The game of life is a game of chance, and there are laws enough already, but as conditions change it may be necessary to alter or amend them. The inherent difficulty is that the people do not sufficiently understand each other's problems, and it is a very human failing to be suspicious of what we do not understand. That is why the workman demanding higher wages for his labor and the manufacturer charging higher prices for his goods while justifying their own actions by the attitude of the workman in denouncing workmen and manufacturers in other lines from making the same attempts to improve their condition.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

POINDEXTER PRESIDENCY CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Senator Miles Poinexter of Washington has made formal announcement of his intention to seek the Republican Presidential nomination in 1920.

In a signed statement, "To the People of the United States," he not only announced his candidacy, but presented a platform of principles and policies upon which he will stand if elected President.

This platform commits him to maintain the existing government, to preserve the integrity of the national territory as they now exist, with property rights.

He opposes Socialism, Bolshevism and all persons or parties who attempt to uproot and destroy the present form of government.

Poinexter declares war upon such labor leaders or labor unions as oppose the government and denounces the actions of the Railway Brotherhoods to obstruct the transportation systems of the country, as almost "government by terror for the benefit of a special class."

NEITHER SIDE FAYORED.

He declares the nation cannot be ruled by either capital or labor, but that "both capital and labor must be subject to the rule of the people."

Poinexter's "announcement in part, follows:

"Every necessary agency of the government should be used to give complete protection to the lives and rights of American citizens in Mexico; and the international duties we have assumed as to that country, by reason of our proximity and as incidental to the Monroe doctrine, should be at once performed."

"The launching and withdrawing, without definite purpose or result, of military expeditions to Vera Cruz and other portions of Mexico, also as at Archangel and other portions of the world, are criminal in their reckless disregard of life and national treasure expended without the possibility of any benefit whatever."

"Alien slackers who renounced their first papers of naturalization in order to escape military service, should be denied citizenship in the future and should be reported without delay."

AGAINST REVOLUTION.

"Revolutionary communism, by whatever name it is called, must be met and put down wherever it appears as subversive of liberty."

"This nation cannot be ruled by capital and labor. Both capital and labor must be subject to the rule of the people. The government must be supreme."

"The just claims of labor should be recognized."

Senator Poinexter says peace with Germany should be declared at once and he declares all American soldiers in Europe and Asia should be withdrawn immediately.

He demands the re-establishment of the Monroe doctrine.

CHECK GARAGES NEAR HOSPITAL

After the appearance of a delegation of women representing the Fabiola Hospital Association, who protested through Attorney C. E. Snook the erection of a garage in Broadway adjoining the hospital grounds, the city council this morning notified the garage proprietors to cease operations pending a public hearing of the council chambers.

A petition was presented containing the signatures of a number of prominent physicians and surgeons, patrons of the hospital, endorsing the protest.

It was claimed that the operation of a garage near the hospital grounds would make the place impossible for patients and that a portion of the building would have to be abandoned.

Small Chimney Fire in Berkeley Church

BERKELEY, Oct. 27.—Attendants of the First Unitarian church who sought to warm the office for evening devotion yesterday, set up too profusely with the result that the fire department was called at 10:30 o'clock to extinguish a chimney blaze.

A roof fire at the home of J. N. Young, 2311 First street, was caused at about 10:30 p.m. A third call was responded to by the department at the home of Colonel A. A. Milton, 64 Paramount way, where the damage was $10.

Claims Japan Will Return Shantung New Ambassador Gives Assurances

Japan would not make of her assurance to return Shantung to China a mere scrap of paper."

Mifune Shidehara, new Japanese ambassador to the United States, made this declaration on his arrival in San Francisco yesterday afternoon.

As to the time of the repatriation of Shantung, however, he would make no statement. "The ambassador did not prepare a formal statement, and did not depart from it to voice the assurance that Shantung would be returned."

A series of receptions in honor of the ambassador began today in San Francisco. The Nippon Club and the Japanese Association held a series of gatherings which will give prominent members of the Japanese community an opportunity to meet Shidehara.

YOUNGEST AMBASSADOR HERE.

Shidehara is the youngest ambassador Japan has sent to the United States. Although only 47 years of age, he has had wide experience as a diplomat. As counselor of the Japanese embassy at Washington during the Roosevelt administration, he gained first-hand knowledge of the situation regarding the Japanese in America and the "gentlemen's agreement."

The Siberia Maru brought other official guests, including General Semenov, commander of the Baikal Cossacks. He is the only Russian general to visit the United States since the revolution. Semenov, who is only 19 years old, said that General Semenov had obtained Japanese cooperation by promising to purchase supplies, clothing, raw materials and ammunition.

Logodich, who is only 19 years old, said that General Semenov had obtained Japanese cooperation by promising to purchase supplies, clothing, raw materials and ammunition.

Lieutenant Colonel Andrew Benkevich, also aboard the Siberia Maru, will also visit the United States. Omak government embassy at Washington. Colonel Benkevich proposed the speedy fall of the Lenin government.

PREDICTS FALL OF LENIN.

"The success of the anti-Bolshevik forces in both the Ukraine and in Siberia is becoming more noteworthy every day," he said. "I predict the collapse of the Lenin government within the next few months."

"Through the activities of General Denikin in the Ukraine and Admiral Kolchak in Siberia, they have been cut off from the principal sources of supplies and particularly are short of ammunition."

The Siberia Maru was held up a day at Yokohama because of a strike of the cooks, waiters and bakers. Passengers told of the adoption by the Japanese working men of American methods in obtaining higher wages. That the rebels also are making headway in Japan was the assertion of Frank Brenner, New York fur buyer. If the situation becomes worse he said that Japan will be left so busy at home it may not be able to devote attention to the colonization of Siberia.

The presence on board of the new Japanese ambassador made the Siberia Maru the recipient of much attention. Among prominent Japanese aboard were the Japanese ambassador, Mifune Shidehara, and the Japanese ambassador, Mifune Shidehara, and the Japanese ambassador, Mifune Shidehara.

Ambassador Shidehara's official statement follows:

"I am delighted to find myself again in America, a country for which I have always entertained profound sympathy and admiration. I fully realize that Washington is a very important post for the Japanese diplomatic service, and I am all the more sensible of the great responsibilities implied in the mission with which I am now honored."

"I have a strong belief in the practical common sense of the American people, and above all, their instinctive love of justice, which have invariably proved in the end to have a controlling influence in all matters of international importance. With this conviction in mind I do not anticipate that my new task will be quite as difficult as it is important."

"It is indeed, my most agreeable duty and my proud ambition, to do whatever lies in my power to promote the cooperation between the Japanese and the American people, in a spirit of sincerity and good will. Happily, such cooperation has always existed in the past, and it must surely be our patriotic aim to see that nothing prevents its continuance in the future, and that petty jealousies and miserable suspicions shall never be allowed to come into our quarter of the globe."

BERKELEY, Oct. 27.—Resolutions endorsing the waterfront lease and condemning referendum proceedings were adopted Saturday night at a mass meeting held by the Berkeley Commercial Club at Finnish Comrades' hall, with several hundred persons in attendance. C. C. Newkirk, former councilman, presided at the meeting. While speakers included Councilman Charles D. Heywood, Charles Shideler and others.

Further discussion of the lease will be held tomorrow night at a mass meeting to be held at the Hotel Shattuck by the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce.

President Ira A. Morris of the commercial body will preside. Councilman Charles D. Heywood, author of the lease in its present form, will enumerate reasons why further delay in passing the document will result in a great economic and financial loss to the city. A speaker in behalf of the referendum and the faction opposed to the lease has not been announced.

Tomorrow a similar discussion will be conducted with the Berkeley Defense Corps in its "dormitory" at Alston way, with Councilman Heywood as one of the speakers of the evening. Targis, president of the committee of the corps will preside the meeting.

TWO WOMEN FIGHT JEWEL THEFT CHARGE

With powerful friends rallying to their defense, plans for an active fight against the accusations they are facing are being made by Allene Weber, wife of a Fresno fruit operator, held in Los Angeles on suspicion of having perpetrated a jewelry robbery. Her co-defendant, Mrs. Marjorie Weber, wife of a Fresno fruit operator, held in Los Angeles on suspicion of having perpetrated a jewelry robbery. Her co-defendant, Mrs. Marjorie Weber, wife of a Fresno fruit operator, held in Los Angeles on suspicion of having perpetrated a jewelry robbery.

In the meantime local authorities are investigating a mysterious epidemic of jewelry robberies about the bay last June, when the Morton jewelry store in Oakland and four stores in San Francisco were robbed. Morton's lost $1000 worth of diamonds, the robbery being perpetrated by two women.

WEBER PROMPTLY GOES TO JAIL

Mrs. Weber, 27 years of age, is the wife of an official of the Fresno Fruit Growers' association. Weber is gone to the aid of his wife in Los Angeles. She claims to be the daughter of Mrs. Clara Goodrich of Oakland, widow of a wealthy San Francisco business man. She was accused of having stolen jewelry from the Morton jewelry store in Oakland, and shortly afterward, police say, she took place in Fresno and San Diego.

The arrest of the two women followed the theft of a $500 diamond ring from a jewelry store in Los Angeles. Descriptions of the women suspected of the thefts were sent to other stores, and shortly after the two women were arrested in Fresno and Los Angeles. They were taken to the Los Angeles police station and admitted visiting the first store.

The Shreve robbery cost that firm a salary of $2000 a year. According to a clerk at the Feagan store, where they were arrested, they forced Mrs. Weber to replace a diamond ring she had taken from a woman's handbag.

Weber, who hurried to Los Angeles, has arranged for attorneys for the defense. Mrs. Weber visited in jail by Rev. J. Whicomb Broun, who knew the Webers in Fresno and who has offered to aid her in any way possible. Mrs. Weber, a Los Angeles business woman, also a family friend, visited the women and insists that Mrs. Weber is innocent of wrongdoing and is accused through an error.

MAYOR'S WIFE SLAPS KING'S OFFICIAL GUIDE

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—That J. M. ("Burr") Nye, representative of the state department with the royal Delagians on tour in America, returned to Washington not alone with the maledictions of certain prominent Southern Californians but with a smacking cheek, became known here today.

Mrs. Meredith P. Snyder, wife of Los Angeles' mayor, disclosed how she had administered a resounding slap on Nye's face during the visit of the king and the queen here.

"He was too smart," Mrs. Snyder explained.

"Get a hustle on you and get out," was the manner in which Nye was said to have addressed the first lady of Los Angeles. And when he emphasized his words by grasping her roughly by the arm, she let him have a right jab with the open hand.

The episode took place when the royal couple were changing automobiles for a tour of the city.

ORDER INCREASE IN WATER RATES FOR PITTSBURG

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—The Railroad Commission today granted authority to the Pittsburg Water company to increase its rates for supplying consumers in Pittsburg and adjacent territory, to add a sur-charge of 40 per cent to its bills and tolls for water. The commission held that a sur-charge of 15 per cent was inadequate in view of the abnormal conditions faced by the company.

ORDER INCREASE IN WATER RATES FOR PITTSBURG

The company recently petitioned for permission to add a sur-tax to its rates because of increased operating expenses brought about by a low flow of fresh water in the Sacramento river. The water now taken in at the company's intake points is brackish, making necessary the use of large quantities of fresh water ten miles above the intake. This is estimated to cost the company $9000 instead of the original figure of $6000.

ORDER INCREASE IN WATER RATES FOR PITTSBURG

The sur-charge authorization merely is temporary, however, and rates will be adjusted as soon as low water conditions have been remedied.

CHILEAN NAVAL MOVES INDICATE REVOLT IN PERU

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 27.—The Chilean cruiser Esmeralda sailed northward yesterday and other units of the Chilean fleet are being prepared for sea duty. It is rumored they will follow the Esmeralda. This move on the part of Chile follows persistent reports of a probable revolution in Peru and information that the Peruvian government is making military preparations in the southern part of that country for the alleged purpose of diverting popular attention from the revolt which is said to be impending.

Officials of the Chilean government who were interviewed did not wish to commit themselves as to the sailing of the Esmeralda, further than to say that the measure was one made against possible events. Information received from an authoritative source, however, is to the effect that the government, while it does not expect a conflict, sent the Esmeralda northward in advance of the Chilean fleet to show that this country was prepared to maintain order on the northern frontier and would not permit revolutionary forces to take advantage of the Chilean territory or to involve Chilean citizens or authorities.

BOY SCOUTS PLAN BIG FIELD DAY

Plans are being laid for a big field day for Oakland-Piedmont Council Boy Scouts of America, at the Scout camp grounds at the head of Diamond canyon, next Saturday.

Beginning at 11 a. m. Saturday, a big program of athletic sports and other features will be rendered. At noon a barbecue for Scouts only will be served. The public is invited to attend the exercises of the day.

Among the numbers on the program are: Compass contest, water boiling contest, knot-tying, Paul Revere race, firemen's rest, log-cutting contest, signalling, tug-of-war, first aid, tower building and swimming contest.

The Scouts have been highly proficient in these matters, according to F. J. Hill, local Scout executive, and are looking forward with keen interest to the coming event.

The naval and marine Scouts have been confused with the Boy Scouts of America, Hill says that he wishes to correct the misapprehension on the part of the public by a high school of wearing apparel. Only wearing apparel and a few household articles were taken.

COUNCIL ASKS GOVERNOR TO PROBE H. C. L.

A resolution asking Governor Stephens to amend his call for a special session of the legislature to include an investigation of the high cost of living, was passed by the council this morning.

Action was taken following a communication from Mayor Davis to the council calling attention to the fact that the governor had issued a proclamation to convene the legislature in extra session for the purpose of ratifying the suffrage amendment to the federal constitution.

"The high cost of living is a vitally important issue at this time," said the mayor in his communication, "and I would suggest that this body favor requesting the governor to amend his proclamation to include consideration of the high cost of living by the legislature in this extra session and that legislation be enacted to control profiteers and to prevent a continuance of the present imposition upon the people."

Roosevelt Avenue Suggested by Mayor

Mayor Davis this morning submitted a communication to the city council calling attention to the fact that today is Roosevelt day, and urging the city council to take some definite step to commemorate Roosevelt's memory. The mayor suggested renaming one of Oakland's prominent thoroughfares, calling it Roosevelt avenue, and also suggested that one of the new schools to be erected under the recent bond issue be named after Roosevelt, preferably a high school. The mayor's suggestion was referred to Commissioner of Streets Baccus.

BANK BANDITS MAY BE TRIED IN BOYS' COURT

That the juvenile court may decide the punishment for the two eighteen-year-old bank bandits, Wallace Hall and Clifford Jackson, confined in the Oakland city prison on their confessions of having robbed a messenger of Anglo California bank and held up the First National bank at Emeryville, was the sentiment expressed today in the police court of Judge George Samuels after the arraignment of the accused.

The only relatives of the youths present were their fathers, J. W. Hall, 1219 Brush street, and William Jackson, 1065 Fifty-fifth street, who put in appearance at the arraignment this morning.

"There is a strong disposition to transfer the cases to the juvenile court," announced Prosecuting Attorney William Hennessey after the arraignment. "However, I cannot state what recommendation, if any, will be made."

Judge Samuels declared he was of the opinion that the two boys should be placed in the reformatory until they were of age.

At the arraignment, the cases were set over until tomorrow for the date to be set for their examination, neither the boys were represented by attorneys in police court this morning.

BANDITS BUSY;
FOUR INJURED
ONE MAY DIE

Four persons are suffering from injuries, one may die, a number have been robbed, and several burglaries and six auto thefts are added to Oakland's crime record for the past twenty-four hours. Four automobiles have been recovered by the police in the same length of time and there are a number of arrests.

Mystery surrounds a strange Chinese, lying desperately wounded at the Emergency hospital, following an attack on him in his room at 112 Seventh street yesterday. The police believe the attack was by a user of narcotics, desperate because of lack of the drug he craved. The Chinese victim, who gave the name of Joseph Sang, was found unconscious in the hall of the Seventh street house by the police, attracted by his groans. He said he had been assaulted by a knife wielder, who, he declared, he did not recognize. The police believe that his assailant was in quest of opium. Search of physicians' offices continued today in an effort to locate a man, believed to have been wounded in escaping from Dan Schmidt, night watchman for the Skandia Pacific Engine Works. The prowler, with two others, was engaged in filling sacks with scrap iron, according to the watchman, when he came upon him. They fled as he fired three shots. One man fell, but rose and escaped; assisted by his companions in a waiting automobile. The police are also searching hospitals for a clue to the wounded man.

SEEK YOUTHFUL BANDITS.
Two youths are sought by the police on a charge of perpetrating three daring holdups, in which one victim was badly beaten. R. D. Van Kleeck, 1629 Grant street, was in the office of Dr. H. P. Charles, 707 Broadway, when the bandits entered and attacked him, beating him badly. The same two youths, the police believe from descriptions furnished, were responsible for the robbery of Walter Smith, residing in the Berkeley Y. M. C. A. He was held up near the Oakland museum, the bandits obtaining $50 from him. Joseph Farrol, 1421 Jackson street, reported an attack at Thirteenth and Jackson streets a few blocks from the museum, by two men believed to be the same thugs. The bandits were unmasked and carried revolvers, according to the victim. Acting Captain of Inspectors Lou Agnew says that the pair are

A Woman's Hearty Recommendation
Worry and overwork cause kidney trouble, writes a woman who has suffered with men. Miss Sara W. Chapman, Ill., writes: "I could not stoop down and when I was down I had to crawl up by a chair. I was so lame I suffered agony. Now I feel like a new person, strong and hale in every way. My general health is quite improved. I heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills to all suffering from kidney trouble, dizziness, puffiness under the eyes, sore muscles and joints and rheumatic pains when caused by disordered kidneys—Osgood Bros.—Advertisement."

Retailers Claim
Loss on Sugar at 11 Cents Pound

That retailers lose money when they sell sugar for 11 cents a pound is the assertion made today by officials of the Retail Grocers' Association of Alameda county. They say that the retailer pays prices ranging from $9.70 to $9.80 a hundred for sugar. Under the ruling that the dealer can sell only two pounds to each customer it is pointed out that it is necessary to fill fifty two-pound bags from a sack of sugar. Grocers maintain that the time required to fill the small bags is considerable, and that figuring in the cost of the bags, which is one-half cent each, they lose money on every sack of sugar they handle.

probably the same who operated in San Francisco several weeks ago. Six automobiles were stolen in the past twenty-four hours, and four have been recovered by outside police stations. Edith H. Williams of San Diego reported her auto gone from in front of the Hotel Oakland. It was recovered in East Oakland. Mrs. H. D. Hayward, 222 Telegraph avenue, reported her machine stolen downtown. This was also found abandoned in East Oakland. C. P. Fish, 1851 Fifteenth street and F. E. Miller, 583 Fifth street, reported their cars stolen, these being recovered later. These thefts, the police say, were probably the work of joyriders.

Mrs. A. Boubaben, 828 Twenty-eighth street, reports her machine stolen from Eleventh and Broadway. T. McGhee of Niles reported his machine stolen. These two have not been recovered.

TWO BURGLARIES FOILED.
Two burglary attempts were foiled last night by the sudden appearance of householders. Mrs. P. M. Sanders, Caldwell Court apartments, screamed as a night prowler attempted to enter her rooms. He fled. The police are investigating. J. T. Blum reported to the police that a burglar tried to enter his home at 1231 High street, and that he returned from an outing in time to interrupt the thief, who fled. Detectives are working on the case.

Giving his occupation as "detective," Charles Darlington of 3184 Peralta avenue is under arrest, on a complaint, sworn by G. H. Blake, Alameda merchant, charging grand larceny. According to Blake, Darlington obtained an automobile from him on installment payments which, he charges, were not settled.

Henry Davis, Darlington's attorney, says that his client is falsely accused, that he was in the automobile business and took the machine to be resold. John Hill received treatment at the Emergency hospital following an argument with policeman Sam Thornally, who arrested him at Fifth street. According to the policeman, Hill put up a fight. After the policeman finished with him he took him to the hospital for repairs, thence to jail. A burglar trap, devised by Morris Sweeney, 6094 Idaho street, is the inventor of a burglar alarm that is too successful. It consisted of a bucket of water fixed over a door; the only trouble was that Mrs. Sweeney returned unexpectedly from Los Angeles without the shower. Also her pet poodle dog was drenched. Sweeney doesn't want to go home now.

Two New School Health Centers Will
Open in Outlying Districts Next Week

Some of the clinic babies at the Lazear school. Left to right, FRANK FREITAS and his little sister MARY; THERESA and MABEL BOLWALSKY and their mother. This clinic and the care it is giving the babies were made possible by the assistance of a woman's club of Oakland.

All Crippled and Deficient Pupils in Oakland Will Receive Free Treatment at Neighborhood Medical Stations

The new health center at the Lazear school, where the children of the neighborhood will be taken care of and the faults corrected that might presently make them invalid and deficient, will be opened November 3. A similar center at the Prescott school will be opened the following day. This is the start of a plan which, it is hoped, will embrace every school section in Oakland where health provision is not now made.

The Lazear school center has been made possible by the assistance of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, the local chapter; that at the Prescott school by the Oakland club. Mrs. L. F. Holmond, district chairman of child welfare work for the Federation of Women's clubs; Miss Annie Florence Brown, formerly of the Oakland board of education; Dr. E. W. Bailey, state chairman of child welfare work for the state federation and director of science in the Oakland schools, are among those who are working for the success of the plan.

Other women's clubs are planning to be of assistance. The promoters of the plan have figured out thus what they can do: The club with $10 to spend can maintain for two months any center already established; the club with $40 can equip such a center; the club with $100 can finance a children's health center for a year; the club with $1000 can establish a complete treatment station capable of handling a clinic for dental work and minor surgery.

Out of 124 children enrolled at the Lazear school the health authorities found 730 whose teeth needed immediate attention. Many of these needed other sorts of health supervision as well. The school board sent to a clinic, it was found, but the nearest clinic was at Thirty-first and Grove streets, a distance beyond the reach of many of those in need. The establishment of a health center at the Prescott school, according to Dr. Bailey, is typical of what is planned to be done elsewhere. The Oakland club contributed the funds for its equipment. The school board furnished the necessary room, janitor service and minor supplies. Nurses are furnished by the department of health development and sanitation of the schools. Local physicians give their services without charge.

Collateral work is also being done at the Prescott and other schools. There, for instance, has been established a demonstration cottage and an exhibit, which the girl in charge

ROTARIANS VISIT
CLUB AT CAPITAL

Seventy-five members of the Oakland Rotary club were guests Saturday night of the Sacramento Rotarians and returned to this city yesterday morning. The visitors report an enjoyable time in the capital city. The trip to Sacramento, which was made over the Oakland and Antioch, was in the nature of a return visit, the Rotarians of that city recently having been guests of the Oakland Rotary club.

The membership of the Rotary club in this city has grown very rapidly during the last twelve months and the activity of that body in working constantly for the best interests of the community has brought forth words of highest commendation from similar organizations from all parts of the country. The members of the club from this city were given a rousing welcome in Sacramento, they say, and after the formal opening of the meeting there the program was turned over to the visitors by the Rotary club of the capital city. An elaborate dinner was served and music and dancing were indulged in. After the opening address the Sacramento chairman turned the meeting over to Herman T. Johnson, president of the Oakland Rotary club. Among the Oaklanders on the program were:

Frank Reed, original poem: "Astronomy"; "Professor" Max Horwinski; Rotary Romance George A. Cummings, the author; Arthur Hargrave, Fred Blanchard, Arthur Hargrave Jr. and Miss Dorothy Taylor. Bill Cummings was stage manager. In its early history Rotary looked for a plan of organization, and instead of competition tried friendly and sensible co-operation. Thus it was a cooperation that was the soil in which the seed of Rotary was sown, its members point out, and the success and growth of the organization are attributed to the right start and wholesome beginning. Co-operation, both economically and socially, is the creed of the Rotarians.

CO-EDS LOSE
AS DEFENDERS
OF BOLSHEVIKS

BERKELEY, Oct. 27.—All may be fair in love and war but not in debates as conducted on the University of California campus.

At least so say co-eds at the state university who resent a decision given men students in the annual debate between the two sexes as conducted last week on the campus. In the first place the co-eds resent the choice of the subject for argument, which was "Resolved: The United States government recognize the soviet government in Russia." The affirmative was given the co-eds and they lost the honors. Naturally, after the co-eds, judges chosen from among the university faculty would never go on record as placing the stamp of approval on anything as radical as the "red" form of government now in control of Russia.

The debate was the annual contest between the Parliamentary Debating Society, composed entirely of women, and the Congressional Debating Society, the men's organization. It was the first time in five years that the two societies were pitted against each other to determine upon whether or not the college faculty.

BRITAIN FACES
BIG DEFICIT IN NEW BUDGET

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Great Britain's national deficit for the fiscal year of 1919-1920 is estimated at 473,645,000 pounds sterling under the revised Budget, the main figures of which were announced today by Austin Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer. The revenue is put at 1,163,850,000 pounds and the expenditures at 1,642,295,000 pounds. The chancellor stated that Great Britain owes the United States $842,000,000.

(According to the present rate of exchange the English pound sterling is worth about $4.16 in American money. Its normal pre-war value was $4.86.)

men or women could talk with the greatest effect.

As spokeswoman for the co-eds were the Misses Dorothy McCullough, Mildred Moulton, and Emma Honrick. Pitted against them were Paul Griffith, James Sewell and Kenneth Williams.

In the difficult roles of judges sat Professor Karl C. Leistikow, representing the history department; Dr. E. Watkins, assistant professor of public speaking; and Mrs. E. Reed, other to determine upon whether or not the college faculty.

SEEK MEANS
WEST TRADE

The extension of Western America's trade with the South American republics and the matter of competing more generally with the Japanese steamship companies on the Pacific are to be considered at a meeting in San Francisco of delegates of chambers of commerce from the ports of San Francisco bay, Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Los Angeles and San Diego on Wednesday, October 29.

The recently announced program of the shipping board allocating at least four freight vessels for run between Seattle, San Francisco, San Pedro and South American ports will be discussed from all possible angles and plans presented for an enlargement of this program. Establishment of more trade routes both to South America and the Far East will be planned.

The completed program will be presented to the shipping board for its approval, with the recommendation that the Pacific coast be given equal attention with the Atlantic coast in establishing a well-balanced merchant marine, according to an announcement by the local chamber
